

Treatment and/or prophylaxis of T-cell-mediated and inflammatory disorders in mammalian patients is effected by administering to the patient effective amounts of apoptotic bodies and/or apoptotic cells, and administration of the apoptotic cells so formed to the patient.

5